Mission
ASA inspires creative thinkers and leaders through providing an innovative concentration in college preparation informed by the performing arts.

Core Values
● High standards and striving for academic and artistic excellence
● Critical thinking, creativity and innovation
● Collaboration and cooperation
● Community building among students, teachers, parents and partners
● Faculty modeling and positive peer pressure reinforcing School values
The 2015-2016 school year marked the beginning of ASA’s third decade in the Phoenix downtown and opened the next chapter in our school’s legacy for innovation and achievement. As the school has reached the peak of its growth, we look beyond our gates to enriching community partnerships for our students.

This year, several prior collaborations stretched in new directions. The Herberger Theatre Center, home to our middle school theatre productions, has now blossomed into afternoon events for various arts ensembles to activate the downtown plaza. Sixth grade classes participated in a pilot program designed by ASA faculty and the Phoenix Art Museum to introduce middle school students to the museum and its collection. And members of the senior class worked with professional storytellers to produce Shooflies – an ASA signature storytelling event at the Crescent Ballroom. And, for the third year in a row, ASA was recognized as an AZ Civic Engagement School of Excellence!

The fiscal year ended on a strong financial note largely due to the retention of students throughout the year, the strength of our fundraising campaign, and meticulous budget management. This allowed us to make some high impact investments including—risers for the choir department, two tubas for band, an acoustic piano, an addition of over 100 Chromebooks for classroom use, and an enhanced security system for campus safety.

Finally, the Board of Directors welcomed three new members to the table and also grieved the loss of Board President, Dan Schay, who passed away suddenly in April. A true exemplar of ASA’s culture and values, Dan embodied the artistic, scholarly and leadership qualities we hope to instill in all our students. As we move into the 2016-17 year, his character and vision will continue to be a model for all of us who care deeply about our children and the future of the arts and education in our state.

Academics

ASA believes its chief responsibility is to nurture each student’s capacity to learn, to reason critically, and to weigh the merits of conflicting knowledge in a responsible way. The school expects its students to pursue excellence in the academic and arts areas. The Faculty strives to develop students who are critical thinkers and able to articulate their ideas verbally, as well as in writing.

In 9th Grade social studies, ASA students learned about the dire need for clean, disease-free water in South Sudan, Africa. To combat this problem, students founded Freshmen for Freshwater. The goal of this club is to raise $15,000 to fund the digging of one well in a rural community. In order to reach this goal, Freshmen for Freshwater conducts weekly bake sales and other fundraising activities. So far they have raised over $8,000.
“Arizona School for the Arts has been an incredible asset to showcase how livable the Central City is, as we focus on recruiting new companies into the Phoenix market. Their stellar education programs, proven track record and diverse arts centric training help my team bring knowledge based, thought-leading companies into the core of the City. These company leaders are looking for exceptional opportunities for their children, and ASA provides just that.”

— Christine Mackay, Director of City of Phoenix, Community and Economic Development
The Class of 2017 is ASA’s original 5th grade class and they are a closely connected group of students. We are excited to see all that they will accomplish after graduation!

“Throughout my 8 years at ASA, I have gained lifelong friends and mentors, people I now consider my family. I was actually a part of the very first fifth grade class at ASA, so my peers and I have definitely grown together over the years. We have cheered for one another in every victory and loved each other through every challenge.

While our time together is growing short as our adventure at ASA draws to a close, there is not a doubt in my mind that every single one of my classmates is going to achieve incredible things in the world.

ASA has given each of us a passion and hunger for the arts while also cultivating within us a desire to explore the world, question the world, and change the world. We have been given the tools that are necessary to excel as scholars, as artists, and most importantly, as individuals.

Looking into the next few years of my life, I am confident that ASA has prepared me to succeed in anything I put my mind to. I look forward to pursuing a career that focuses on humanities, human rights, and justice while continuing to fuel my love and need for the arts.

ASA has given me a home and a forever family, and for that, I am so grateful.”
